3. Response from Chief Jack Carruth regarding Command and Control. There was some discussion at the last CRB closed meeting regarding concerns about police officers talking at the same time during police interactions rather than one officer taking the lead. Not speaking over one another is something that is trained regularly and the police department will continue to focus on this matter.

Board member Heisey added that during her time at the NACOLE conference this was an area of focus. Too many commands can be confusing for an individual.

4. Standing Rule for Ride-Along. Board Chair Glad said the Board needs to discuss in more detail what will count towards a ride-along. City ordinance says that each Board member has to have two ride-alongs per year. Collectively the Board has a total of 12 ride-alongs for 2023 five of which are Board chair Glad's. The definition for a ride-along should be narrowed down to make sure this requirement is being met.

There was a lengthy discussion on the minimum required for a ride-along. Lt. Ryan Cram believes that a ride-along should last at least 3-4 hours. Gary Cox added that it depends on the officer and what is going on during the shift.

The Board said the rule should state that the ride-along should be with an on-duty officer, separate officers and a minimum of two hours.

This item was moved to January meeting for a vote.
