

U.S. Census Bureau Estimates for Cities and Housing Units, 2023

On May 16th, 2024, the Census Bureau released population estimates for incorporated places (cities and towns) and housing units at the state and county level for July 1, 2023. The city-level population estimates utilize locally submitted building permits to estimate population. They are then controlled to county estimate totals, which were published in March 2023.

Utah in the National Context

Subcounty Population

In 2023, Saratoga Springs' population passed 50,000, adding it to the list of large cities across the country. No cities in Utah made the list of top 15 fastest-growing cities with populations over 20,000. However, six cities in Utah rank in the top 100 fastest growing cities.

County Housing Units

Utah remained the state with the fastest-growing housing stock for the third year in a row. The state added 30,381 new units between July 1, 2022 and July 1, 2023. Rich County (8.5%) experienced the second fastest housing unit growth in the country, while Wasatch County (6.1%) tied for fourth.

Utah and Salt Lake counties each contributed just over a quarter of the state's housing unit growth, followed by Washington (10.4%), Weber (7.5%), and Davis (7.0%) counties. All other counties individually contributed less than 4.0% to statewide housing unit growth.

National Picture

Subcounty Population

Southern cities continue to lead the nation in absolute and percent population growth, though growth rates are slowing in many places. Texas had the most places in the top 15 fastest-growing cities (8 of which were in the state) and the largest-gaining cities (6).

County Housing Units

The U.S. added 1.6 million new units between 2022 and 2023, a 1.1% growth rate. For the third year in a row, Utah experienced the fastest growth in housing units, with a growth rate of 2.5%. Idaho (2.3%) and South Dakota (2.2%) ranked second and third respectively.

Population Changes in Utah Cities

Utah was the 8th fastest-growing state in the country in 2023 with a 1.1% growth rate (totaling 36,498 new residents). Utah County accounted for 45.2% of statewide population growth, followed by Washington (12.9%), Davis (9.1%), Weber (6.8%), Cache (6.2%), and Tooele (5.7%) counties. All other counties contributed less than 5% of state growth, and seven counties (including Salt Lake County) experienced modest population declines.

Six communities that added the most population between 2022 and 2023 were in Utah County. Washington, Salt Lake, Weber, and Davis counties each had one community that made the highest growth places list. Of places with populations greater than 1,000, West Haven experienced the fastest growth at 7.4%. Lehi (6.9%), Hideout (6.9%), Payson (6.8%), Rocky Ridge (6.6%), and Saratoga Springs (6.5%) each had growth rates greater than 6.0%.

Between July 1, 2022 and July 1, 2023, 69 municipalities in Utah lost population. Five cities lost more than 500 residents, all of which were in Salt Lake County.
