BACKGROUND

The Utah Department of Transportation (Project Proponent) proposes extending the West Davis Corridor (WDC), also known as SR-177, to enhance regional mobility in western Davis and Weber Counties. The first phase of the WDC was constructed and opened in 2024. The WDC Corridor Phase II (Proposed Project) will extend from the current northern terminus at SR 193 to the north, connecting to 1800 North. The Proposed Project will also include extending the multi-use paved trails constructed during the first phase to 1800 North. The total anticipated project footprint is approximately 134 acres (ac) of land for the roadway construction, staging, access, stormwater management, and trails. The Project Proponent asserts that Phase II of the WDC is necessary to enhance interconnection between transportation modes, support local growth objectives, and expand bicycle and pedestrian options for the growing population in Davis and Weber counties. The Proposed Project will permanently impact 24.15 acres of Palustrine Emergent (PEM) wetlands and 3.82 acres of ponds and drainage channels. Approximately 370,000 cubic yards (CY) of clean fill, 7,000 CY of road base, and 9,000 CY of asphalt will be used to fill Waters of the U.S. (WOTUS). The Proposed Project was designed to minimize and avoid impacts to aquatic resources within the project areas.
