In some instances fees may be waived. GRAMA encourages waiving the fee when the request benefits the public rather than a specific individual. A person who requests a record to "obtain information for a story or report for publication or broadcast to the general public" is presumed to be acting to benefit the public, pursuant to Utah State code 63G-2-203 (4,5).

GRAMA also encourages the waiver of fees if the requestor is the individual who is the subject of the record - or the guardian or legal representative - and for impecunious individuals (meaning impoverished) whose legal rights are directly implicated by the information in the requested records.

Because GRAMA provides for waivers, a government entity cannot simply state that it will never grant fee waivers. If a person is denied a fee waiver, that denial can be appealed in the same manner as a denial of public records access. The governmental entity must provide a notice of this right in its response to the requester.

A person who believes that there has been an unreasonable denial of a fee waiver may appeal the denial in the same manner as a person appeals when inspection of a public record is denied, pursuant to Utah State Code 63G-2-203.

If a requestor has not properly paid for previously received materials, Weber Fire District will hold the current request until the outstanding payment is paid in full, pursuant to Utah State Code 63G-2-203(8).
