3. Public Comments – 2-minute time limit

Dana Hurdlik asked about parking in the summertime. She said that more pedestrian traffic would help with the aesthetic and with parking. She asked if there was a way to use TRT money to build a fee-based parking structure. The answer given by the mayor stated, yes, TRT money can be used for that, but the expense for such a structure is more than the TRT tax brings in. He also explained to the public some of the things the town has done, such as shuttling people from the outer areas into town. He explained that there was also an attempt to purchase land, or receive a donation of property, for additional parking, but the landowner would not sell.

CM Davis asked if the town has looked at an option to create paid parking. The response was, no, from Mayor Leonhardt. He explained his opinion of not being sure he wanted to charge people for parking who are coming into town and already spending their money here.

CM Argyle shared that she had a landowner who spent a large amount of money to draw up plans to create concierge, covered parking and she received multiple complaints from residents about the project.

Mayor Leonhardt said the town needs to be actively looking for more opportunities to create more parking and continue working with landowners now and in the future to purchase land.

CM Larsen asked if the “envision Garden City” project is realistic. The mayor explained it’s going to take a lot of time and a lot of dollars to get the town to that point. It would require investors seeing the value in the project and putting money to it.

5. Ordinance Discussion/Approval

- a. Ordinance # 25-19 – An Ordinance Adopting the 2006 Edition of the Utah Wildland Urban Interface Code

Travis Hobbs, the Rich County Fire Warden, came and explained this ordinance to the council. This was not approved by the Planning Commission last night because they had questions. Mayor Leonhardt felt Mr. Hobbs could resolve the concerns so the council could pass this ordinance.

Mr. Hobbs explained that there is a state fund that helps cover the cost of wildfires, with the hope that they can receive funds from counties. The state required the adoption of the code. The WUI code motivates cities to mitigate their risk. It is now a rule that every city needs to adopt and enforce this code. The state identified high-risk WUI and created a map. Mr. Hobbs shared the map and explained how it affects Garden City. He explained that high-risk WUI is affected by topography, structures, vegetation, fuel loading, ember loading, etc.

He expects that the map will change as modeling changes over the years. Every jurisdiction needs to build its own WUI map. This will affect the cost of construction in high-risk areas and the need to use class A building materials, as well as defensible space.

Mayor Leonhardt brought up the issue of insurance companies and the willingness of companies to cover homes. Mr. Hobbs stated that he knows of homes in the county that cannot get coverage because they are in the high-risk WUI zones. He said there are not many homes in Garden City limits that are affected by the state's high-risk WUI. Using proper Class A building materials and creating defensible space around structures will help with that.

The cost is $100 a year per lot for the first two years on the county taxes of homes that are in the high-risk WUI. You can request an inspection of your structure, the risk, defensible space, driveway width, etc., to get that price reduced starting this year. The cost is $100 for the next two years, but a risk evaluation could reduce that fee starting in 2028.

The state is not mandating where their local government determines their WUI is. The proposed area for the town's WUI is above the canal. The map the city adopts does not automatically fall under the states' high risk WUI. The map the city adopts will affect stricter building codes.

Mr. Hobbs said anyone can request an inspection to receive information on their WUI risk with no repercussions.

Mayor Leonhardt charged Dan Kurek to get with Riley Argyle and Travis Hobbs to draw an accurate map for compliance with the WUI Code.

CM Argyle asked Mr. Hobbs about an area where the town requires homes to have a sprinkler system because the volunteer fire department stated they would not go to that area in the winter and risk the firefighters.

Mr. Hobbs stated the city is enrolled in the CWS (Community Wildfire Systems) program with the state. For example, the town is not liable for a wildfire that happened and destroyed a bunch of property. This assistance is based on a 10-year average. If the city had multiple fires in that 10-year period, the city could then incur some cost of fighting wildland fires.

Council Member Davis made the motion to adopt Ordinance #25-19, An Ordinance Adopting the 2006 Edition of the Utah Wildland Urban Interface Code with the proviso we review the current WUI map and modify as needs be for the city. Council Member House seconded the motion. A vote was taken: Council Member Argyle, for; Council Member Davis, for; Council Member House, for; Council Member Larsen, for; Motion Carried.

FINANCIAL ANALYSIS OF THE GOVERNMENT'S FUNDS

Governmental funds – The focus of the Town's governmental funds is to provide information on near-term inflows, outflows, and balances of spendable resources. Such information is useful in assessing the Town's financing requirements. In particular, unassigned fund balance may serve as a useful measure of a government's net resources available for spending at the end of the fiscal year.
