GENERATIVE ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE POLICY

Section 1. BACKGROUND

Intelligence is defined as the ability to learn, understand, and make judgments or have opinions that are based on reason. Artificial Intelligence ("AI"), or "traditional AI," is the use of computer systems (algorithms and binary codes) to mimic or simulate human intelligence. Examples of applying traditional AI include Web search engines (e.g., Google Search, Amazon, and Netflix), stock trading, video games, medical diagnosis, and computer chess. Further examples include image recognition and translation. Traditional AI applies pre-defined rules to make decisions and predictions based on historical data.

Generative AI ("GenAI") is a subset of AI. It is a group of emerging and relatively new technologies that use very large amounts of data to create new data or content based on a user's input or "prompts." GenAI can create images, text, music, code, audio, and videos by learning patterns and creating new variations. GenAI can be trained to learn new subjects and can reuse its training data to solve new problems. Other uses of GenAI include the creation of chatbots and media, and the analysis of customer data to personalize customer service. There are many GenAI systems. A few familiar ones are ChatGPT, Grammarly and Microsoft Copilot. GenAI systems may be standalone programs or non-AI software with imbedded GenAI features.

GenAI is rapidly evolving, and the potential risks to the City are not completely understood. Use of these systems could have unanticipated impacts. GenAI systems are believed to have the potential to support City services. However, their use also comes with risk. Areas of concern include the handling of sensitive or private data, ensuring proper attribution of content produced by generative AI, and being accountable and cognizant of what training data is relied upon. Employees should not use generative AI to support critical processes until the risks are better understood.

Section 2. PURPOSE

To encourage responsible evaluation and use of generative AI (and any AI) to support our workforce to deliver better, safer, more efficient and equitable services to our residents. This Policy is designed to establish guidelines and best practices that departments will observe when acquiring and using software that meets the definition of generative AI.

Section 3. SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY

This Policy applies to all City agents, including its departments and employees, referred to herein as "person(s)" or "user(s)." It applies to GenAI technology purchased by the City or used by an employee for City purposes. Any existing technology that adds GenAI capabilities must be used consistent with this Policy.

Section 4. POLICY

A. Use of GenAI Tools

1. Authorization. The City Manager has the authority to review and approve GenAI tools for use by the City and its agents. No GenAI tool may be used for any City purpose unless such approval is given.

a. Approved Programs. The following GenAI programs have been approved by the City Manager for use:

- i. ChatGPT, developed by OpenAI LLC.
- ii. Grammarly, developed by Superhuman Platform, Inc.
- iii. Google Gemini, developed by Google LLC.
- iv. Microsoft CoPilot, developed by Microsoft Corp.

b. Use Restrictions. Approved GenAI programs must be used in accordance with the provisions of this Policy.

c. Review Meetings. Quarterly meetings will be held to review AI advancements and requests for new tools.

2. User Responsibilities. Any person using GenAI for City purposes shall:

- a. Thoroughly review, revise, and fact-check any output produced by the GenAI. Users are responsible for any material they create with AI support.
- b. Cite the generative AI when a substantial portion of the content used in the final version comes from the generative AI.
- c. Use their City e-mail address to register and to create an account. The account associated with an employee's City e-mail address may only be used for City purposes. Personal use of an approved GenAI tool from an account using a City e-mail is prohibited.
- d. Opt-out of optional data collection to ensure that any data provided by the user to the model is not retained by the model or its developer.
- e. Follow all applicable Section 4(A)(3) Miscellaneous Provisions.

3. Miscellaneous Provisions.

- a. Any minutes created using GenAI must have a disclosure that they are not the official record of the City.

B. Data Privacy

1. Unless suitable controls and data protections are in place, as determined by the City Recorder, employees shall not submit data that is classified as controlled, protected, or private under the Government Records Access and Management Act, or that is otherwise not considered to be acceptable to publicly disclose to a GenAI system. This includes personally identifying, confidential, and financial information of the City's residents, visitors, employees, and other entities.

2. Users should be aware that, in most cases, the use of a GenAI system will result in the creation of a public record that must be retained under Utah's Government Records Access and Management Act. See Utah Code Ann. §63G-2-103(25).

3. Users shall opt-out of data collection per Section 4(A)(2)(d).

4. Users should not have any expectations of privacy when interacting with GenAI tools.

5. Users shall not use any private, protected, personally identifying, confidential, financial, or security data when using GenAI, even if the users has opted out of data collection.

6. Users shall verify that any used content produced by GenAI does not infringe any copyright laws. If users are unable to verify such, they should edit the content to be original or discard it.

C. Accountability

GenAI input and output are the responsibility of the user. Work done using GenAI must be approached with care and attention to detail. The following principles shall guide and govern the use of GenAI:

1. Users shall review AI-generated content for accuracy prior to use. If the user discovers the content is not accurate, the user shall edit the content for accuracy or discard it. Users are responsible for the accuracy of the content used and will be held accountable for any false, misleading, or otherwise inaccurate information disseminated, regardless of whether such information was produced by GenAI.

2. GenAI may produce biased or harmful content. Users shall carefully review any content generated to ensure that unintended or undesirable instances of harmful or biased content—including outdated stereotypes, inappropriate language, and illegal material—is changed or removed.

3. GenAI should not be used in situations that may impact rights or safety.

4. GenAI should not be asked for definitive knowledge or decisions. GenAI can "hallucinate," meaning it may fabricate events, claims, or evidence for such. Users may use GenAI outputs to inform their decision-making process but ultimately the person remains the final, responsible decision-maker. GenAI should not be used to produce incident reports.

D. Transparency

1. The City shall be transparent about its use of GenAI with staff, residents, visitors, and users of City social media. It is not necessary to disclose every use of AI-generated work, such as the use of AI-powered tools embedded in Microsoft Office products. However, disclosure is necessary in the following instances:

- a. Where AI-use could create confusion or influence important decisions, such as when making employee hiring or promotion decisions.
- b. When using GenAI product that has been unedited.
- c. When using GenAI to produce images, audio, video, or any other non-textual media.

2. If a person uses AI-generated content in an official City capacity and disclosure is necessary, the content should be clearly labeled with the following or substantially similar language:

This [Product] was created by or with the support of [Name of GenAI program] and has been edited and/or fact-checked by City staff to ensure its accuracy.

This allows the audience of the content to understand its authorship and be able to evaluate the content accordingly.

E. Intellectual Property

Content produced by GenAI tools may include copyrighted material due to training practices. Users shall perform due diligence to ensure that no copyrighted material is published by the City without proper attribution or without obtaining the proper rights.

HOLLADAY CITY COUNCIL

COUNCIL STAFF MEMO

MEETING DATE: February 19th 2026

SUBJECT: Holladay Crossroads Master Plan Area (HCR SAMP) Summary of Events, Re- Development Impediments.

SUBMITTED BY: Jonathan Teerlink

BACKGROUND:

In late 2016 The City of Holladay received a Transportation & Land Use grant from the Wasatch Front Regional Council to study the efficiency, safety, land use and aesthetics of the Highland Drive/Van Winkle intersection and surrounding 25 acres. The city hired consultants Bruce Parker, AICP and DR. Joe Perrin (ATRANS Transportation Engineering) to perform this study. They were assisted by city staff in the gathering of information and hosted four different open house events at city hall. The planning process involved invitations to comment sent to property owners and businesses in both Holladay and Murray, Murray City leaders and request for input from the WFRC, UTA, UDOT and Salt Lake County.

During final public meetings, city staff and consultants presented computer modeling scenarios simulating build out of the area under various conditions. The study was generally well received, voicing a unified opinion; stressing strong desire for improvement to the area. The work resulted in the adoption of the Holladay Crossroads, Small Area Masterplan (HCR-SAMP, 2017). By the end of 2020 the planning commission and council established the Holladay Crossroads Zone boundaries and adopted a hybrid of land use and development regulations intended to implement the vision and goals of the master plan.

City of Holladay HOLLADAY CITY COUNCIL

The HCR zone is considered a blend of the Royal Holladay Hills development intensity with Holladay Village design standards. Since its adoption, only one property owner has taken advantage. In 2021 a dilapidated retail building was razed in favor of an 83-unit mixed use residential and commercial building. This project is set to be completed in Summer of 2026.

HCR ZONE OVERVIEW:

It is intended that the Holladay Crossroads (HCR) Zone be an economically healthy, primary gateway, mixed-use district within the City. The HCR Zone is currently the second most valuable economic center in the City and sales revenues from businesses therein greatly contributes to the City's budget. Future development in this area must not only provide economic benefits to the property and business owners but contribute to the City's overall desirability and quality of life. Arguably positioned along the City's most prominent gateway, the HCR redevelopment area must create a sense of "arrival" to people entering Holladay.

The HCR Zone offers a valuable opportunity for mixed-use and/or commercial development as reflected in the Holladay adopted Crossroads Small Area Master Plan (SAMP). The SAMP recommends future development that would result in a commercial district with a higher density residential component, or, mixed-use. The capacity of the roadways in the area can support this type of future development and traffic growth can be accommodated with the roadway enhancements proposed in the SAMP. This Zone anticipates the blending of older strip commercial development with new, compatible mixed-use development through flexible yet consistent, building design. HCR sanctioned land uses will be influenced by traffic volumes occurring in the area and design themes will be overseen by the City's Design Review Board (DRB). (§13.66.010)

The anticipated redevelopment potential of this area is significant. As the southern entrance to the city, competition with Cottonwood Heights' current retail, office and multi-family uses is considerable. By creating sustainable development patterns, with high quality design characteristics, City staff is hopeful future economic conditions will align to support redevelopment. Additional issues identified as impediments to future development are but may not be limited to;

- Complicated traffic movements limit access and create inefficient and confusing patterns,
- Dated overhead power lines limit construction potential and right of way improvements,
- Open canal system conveying water on behalf of Salt Lake City border the master plan area,
- Billboards encumbering properties, severely limit development potential, and
- Multiple owners of both large and small parcels create complicated redevelopment partnership opportunities.
