IV. Management

Program/Administrative Updates -Felicia Baca

i. General Program Management Updates

MISSION: To promote, present and support artists and arts organizations in order to facilitate the development of the arts and expand awareness, access, and engagement.

- a. Ms. Baca reports that the Arts Council is busy with budget planning, both for a FY25 budget amendment and planning for FY26. Living Traditions is around the corner – unfortunately it conflicts with Kilby Block party so we may see an impact to attendance, but planning is going well and looking forward to the festival. Twilight concert series sales are going well and partners feel good about status. Wake the Great Salt Lake project hosted an event at Fisher Brewery for the “Hope Line” a phone booth where you can leave stories about the Great Salt Lake. Westside/ Glendale public art project artist Matthew Mazzotta will be hosting “living room” sessions for community feedback in the coming weeks. The Blocks released a program called “Co-Create” that activates various artistic disciplines downtown; Brittany Helmers doing an excellent job managing the Blocks program.

IV. Budget/Financials

 - i. Ms. Tursic provided a review of the financials – we received a few donations for the Wake the Great Salt Lake project. The contract for Busker Fest was paid to Primrose Productions and we saw an increase in Salaries & Wages due to hiring of seasonal Living Traditions staff. Overall financials are in good standing.
