Lisa Hutchinson, Ph.D.
Project Director
OJJDP Center for Coordinated Assistance to States
Resources - Developmental Approach

• Reforming Juvenile Justice: A Developmental Approach
Resources - Developmental Approach (continued)

- Implementing Juvenile Justice Reform
Foundation for Change

- Adolescent development research
- Corrections oriented philosophies of 1980s and 1990s
- Several states began reforming their juvenile systems in keeping with tenets of adolescent development
- National Research Council charged with studying these reform efforts
National Research Council

- Committee on Assessing Juvenile Justice Reform Report (2013)
- Three key ways youth differ from adults:
  - Less able to regulate their behavior
  - More sensitive to external influences
  - Less able to make informed decisions requiring consideration of long-term consequences
Goals of Juvenile Justice Reform

- Overarching goal of juvenile system is to support prosocial development of justice involved youth while ensuring public safety.
- Three goals in keeping with adolescent development research:
  1. “Being held accountable for wrongdoing and accepting responsibility in a process perceived to be fair promotes healthy moral development and legal socialization;
Goals of Juvenile Justice Reform (cont.)

- Three goals in keeping with adolescent development research:
  2. “Being penalized, especially with severe sanctions, in a process perceived as unfair reinforces social disaffection and antisocial behavior; and
  3. Predominantly punitive policies and programs do not foster prosocial development or reduce recidivism”
Hallmarks of Developmental Approach

• Accountability without criminalization
• Alternatives to justice system involvement
• Individualized responses based on assessment of needs and risks
• Confinement only when necessary for public safety
Hallmarks of Developmental Approach

• A genuine commitment to fairness
• Sensitivity to disparate treatment
• Family engagement
Aligning the Roles and Responsibilities of State Advisory Groups with this Approach

Lisa Hutchinson, Ph.D.
Project Director
OJJDP Center for Coordinated Assistance to States
The JJDP Act & State Advisory Groups (SAGs)

• The JJDP Act of 1974 created a federal–state partnership.
• Called for states to designate a state agency to be responsible for developing and carrying out the Three-Year Plan.
• Recognized the need for a State Advisory Group (SAG) to oversee how federal money is spent at the state level.
JJDP Act-Specified SAG Roles and Responsibilities

(1) Participate in the development of the Three Year Plan.
   NRC report recommends that SAGs link their plans to the developmental approach

(2) Advise the Chief Executive and the Legislature on compliance with the Core Requirements of the JJDP Act.
   NRC report recommends SAGs be strengthened to be report leaders

(3) Obtain input from juveniles currently under the jurisdiction of the juvenile justice system.
