

Summary Statement from Guideline Revision Process:

The Sentencing Commission recommends that the Legislature recodify all simple traffic and boating offenses (and local ordinances regulating similar conduct) that are classified as Class C Misdemeanors, as Infractions. These are strict liability regulatory offenses and should not carry jail consequences. Other direct and collateral consequences (points accumulation, license suspension) available in this highly regulated area and a financial consequence, are sufficient consequences. Only those traffic offenses involving a direct threat to public safety as a result of improper operation of a motor vehicle should be retained as Class C Misdemeanors. The Sentencing Commission further recommends that the Legislature remove traffic infractions from the definition of “criminal activity” for purposes of restitution, codifying the rule of State v. Robinson.
