

Central Wasatch Commission
May 4th Board Meeting
Short Term Projects Committee Update

On direction of the Short Term Projects Committee, the CWC opened a Call for Project Ideas on Friday, March 13th. The CWC will continue to accept project ideas, but the review committee prioritized idea submissions received on or before Friday April 3rd.

The CWC has since received 35 idea submissions. A review committee scored each of these ideas against criteria. Based on the outcome of the initial review, staff invited 7 applicants to build upon their project idea by submitting a more robust project proposal by April 28th.

During the meeting of the Short Term Projects Committee on Wednesday, April 29th, the Short Term Projects Committee members reviewed and discussed the merits of the project proposals, and arrived at a consensus on which projects to recommend to the Commission for full or partial Funding.

The projects are as follows:

The Commission will be asked to approve spending just under the $60,000 currently budgeted for projects slated to begin work before July 1st. Assuming the proposed budget for the next fiscal year is approved with the $20,000 for projects, we can then award projects not requiring funding immediately.

Staff will create a packet for those applicants the Committee has recommended receive funding. The packet will include items like rules for when and how the CWC will disperse funding, and what we expect from the applicant as far as an itemized expense sheet explaining how and when the funds were/will be used, a statement that if the project does not happen for whatever reason, CWC funds shall be returned, and an outline for what the outreach partnership shall look like for each project.
