1. INTRODUCTION

David Frandsen introduced the process for that evening and divided those present into the same groups as the previous meeting. Each group was given a large sheet of paper showing the Hatch Park plat and some to-scale components on separate papers to cut out and create designs. Groups were assigned themes to use to create their design concepts.

Each team presented their designs to the group at the end of the meeting, and David Frandsen emailed pictures of the design pages to the committee. (See attached.)
