CTC Proposal for Layton City

What is Communities That Care?

Communities That Care (CTC) is an evidence-based framework that guides communities through a five-phase community change process. Using prevention sciences as its base, CTC promotes healthy youth development, improves youth outcomes, and reduces problem behaviors.<sup>1</sup>

Our coalition aims to meet these goals by addressing our own community predictors of these problems. Using local data, we will identify our priority youth health and behavior problems and implement an actionable plan to reduce those risk factors and increase protection for our youth.

Our CTC

Layton's community owned and operated CTC was implemented in August 2020 with the support of Mayor Joy Petro. The CTC consists of one Key Leader Board and two community boards to tailor our action plan to the North and South ends of the city. Our community boards will have developed an action plan by the end of 2021 and implement evidence-based programs in 2022. Currently our coalition has multisectoral support and participation from leaders and members all over our community. These members come from:

It Works!

Evidence-based strategies (like CTC) are implemented to prevent substance misuse and related mental, emotional, and family challenges across our community are only made possible through ongoing collaborative efforts and essential funding. The more we invest in prevention efforts, the greater return we will see as we all strive towards more healthy, safe, and successful families and communities in Layton.

A rigorous, scientific trial demonstrated that young people from communities using the CTC system were 25% to 37% less likely to have health and behavior problems than those from control communities. CTC has shown to provide a $5.31 benefit in cost savings to communities for every $1 spent in the CTC system. The research has shown that positive outcomes in problem behaviors, risk and protective factors can be seen as early as 2 years after implementation, in some cases.

Proposal

To sustain this effort, city investment in CTC is needed. While grants and fundraising can sustain the programs that CTC brings in, more reliable funding streams are required for the administrative and coordinating costs behind the scenes. Davis Behavioral Health (DBH), the CTC fiscal agent, is asking every participating city to provide an amount that equals $.30 per city resident to this effort. Currently, this makes up about a third of the overall cost to run CTC., the other portion will be supported by state and county prevention funding streams.
