

Community Services Director John mentioned that the last quote Elena gave to the committee was under $10,000, however he also mentioned that the survey price may have changed.

3. RFP Process for Historic Properties "Survey"

The RFP starts out with a document that needs to be filled out and sent to multiple companies, and then as a group decide which agency to go with. Community Services Director John then said that he would look further into the pricing and the City sizes and bring that information to the committee for the next meeting. Committee member Ron Jones then asked Councilman Hathaway about finances and how much they may match. Councilman Hathaway said that the council would be bringing it up to the council and should be able to tell them more after the meeting. Committee member Damon Bahr asked what the survey would all entail and Committee member Ron said he thinks it is just counting the historical places in the town. Committee member Dan asked if there was something that the surveyors would be looking for with the houses and Committee member Ron mentioned that the surveyor would probably just look from the outside with their trained eye. Community Services Director John said he found some examples of RFPs and that he would send the information found to the committee. He then briefly mentioned that we would describe the historical areas and that we would recommend places that are historical. The surveyor would then take pictures and do more work with the survey.

4. Discuss Map of City and What should be Included in "Survey".

Community Services Director John Bradley then shared a map and Committee member Ron Jones asked the Committee to start thinking of places that could be excluded from the survey due to how recent the properties are. Committee member Dan Olsen mentioned that a good place to start that could be included would be to start at the Rowley's Red Barn and follow the road down West going North. Committee member Dan mentioned at the actual Mainstreet a hundred Years ago use to be on First South and Went on over to Second East and turned North, which went to Fourth North and close to Third East. When the buildings started being built on Mainstreet, the roads all shifted. Committee member Dan then talked about Hudson Hall and what it had been used for in the past. Committee member Dan said that if you followed that rout you would find many of the old homes and businesses. Committee member Dan mentioned that there are a few old maps that represent how it looked in the past compared to now, the book with the map can be found in the Santaquin Library and could be useful to know who even built the homes. Committee member Dan then asked what type of access the Committee may get or if the information that they have will turn into another book. Committee member Ron mentioned that many of these buildings would be on the historic register, but that the owners will still have control over their property. Committee Member Jeremy Coombs suggested putting a map online for people to mark historical buildings and sights to the houses. Community Services Director John mentioned that they committee had mentioned 100 south to 100 north but if that was all they were wanting to do. Committee member Ron said that there are more places past that but that it may be easier if they sit down and mark up a copy. Both Committee member Ron and Community Services Director John suggested continuing the conversation to the next meeting.
