ARTS UPDATE: Rita Wright reported that the Children's Art Festival experienced pre-pandemic attendance numbers.

UPDATE FROM JACK URQUHART: Jack Urquhart and Kelly Wiltermood are over public art programs. They are putting together some one and five year plans and policies. Looking at new parks coming in to bring public art to them. Patrice said that we are the Art City and these staff members are here to help develop more public art elements. They will also expand to performing arts also. Rivoli, Springville Playhouse and other groups will have input with these discussions. They will be over festivals and eventually performing arts. September art festival will have sidewalk chalk art and visuals arts. Trevor asked how they determine what types of art to focus on. There will be a lot of input before decisions are made. Jack will also work with directors and staff.

Fall festival will mostly be at civic center, library and museum. Rita said there are many art forms that are not represented. They are still trying to sort through all of these things. Communication needs to be coordinated through all types of media.

GOLF UPDATE: Craig Norman said the golf course is booming. Art City Classic had many participants. New irrigation system will save a considerable amount of water usage. Youth on Course is a program that provides lower rates for kids that want to golf. The Utah Golf Foundation has fundraisers and grants to subsidize the kids playing. Over 60,000 rounds of golf have been played with this program. Kids need to register and have a reservation to play in this program.

RECREATION UPDATE: Hannah Silvey reported that Stacey Child has the idea of a youth outdoor adventure program which could include paddle boarding, golf, outdoor fitness, spike ball, mountain biking, pickle ball, kayaking, etc. Baseball and softball are wrapping up the season. Tournaments start next week; then we are going into soccer, flag football and tackle football. Recreation is starting a free summer concert series at Arts Park. Kimberly Stinson's brother wanted to ask about baseball tournament concerns. He sent concerns to a recreation coordinator. Huge light pole crashed down on some bleachers in Bird Park. Light pole has been repaired and we are trying to get the bleachers repaired.

Tyler Wilkins was introduced as Assistant Director of Parks and Recreation. Tyler, previously, was the Recreation Director in Pleasant Grove. Stacey and Tyler are in process of reorganizing the entire department. We had good feedback from Art City Days. CRC is crazy busy. Swimming lessons are full. Activity pool is always closed when there is an accident (feces) and notifications are sent to pass holders. Kurtt asked if there is sufficient staff to accommodate more swimming lessons. Jim Brooks commented that the Queen concert was fantastic. It cost $12,000 to bring the group in to perform in Springville.

PARKS UPDATE: David Ashton reported that there is not much info about west fields central park area. David had a meeting with neighbors of the Cherry Ridge Bike Park. Concerns are parking and turn around. They are already seeing cars parking there for hiking. Some bikers are jumping rock walls and riding over lawns. Dave did slides to show overview of plans and there will be 35 parking stalls. Neighbors requested that the parking lot be finished before trails are ready to use. Motorized vehicles will not be allowed. These plans are very preliminary. We will provide ride-arounds for jumps on intermediate and advanced trails. Designer suggested putting climbing trail up to the top of the runs. These will eventually tie into a larger riding network. Public parking and restrooms will be in one area. Trail access will be in another area. Still trying to figure out what type of parking lot to put in. Trailhead parking lot above Bartholomew Park will have restrooms. Trails will not leave scars and will look nice. We are trying to have multi use trails: hiking, biking, equestrian. Priority will be; horses first, hikers second and bikers last. We are starting on upper park soon. A public meeting will be held July 20. Doug Holm asked if neighbors would get parking permits to park on neighboring streets. Nothing is finalized yet.

PAR FUNDS UPDATE: Mike Snelson said we received our first PAR funds. Bruce Riddle (finance director) projected having $600,000 next year when we can start using the funds.

LONG-TERM PLANNING: Parks and trails master plan, active transportation plan, board needs to be part of strategic planning. Patrice said Sydney Condie's ideas were great. She suggested we improve what we already have because they are not being used to their full potential. Staff has already put together a list of improvements to existing parks. David Ashton will send these to the board. Lee Taylor commented that there are historical elements in many of the parks. Some plaques could explain this history. Families may want to donate towards these plaques. We should not overlook the history in these parks: grist wheel, flagpole, etc. Logan Millsap suggested the board members bike to the parks when they are doing their research for suggestions. Take kids and grandkids to get their input.
