* Remaining funds will be first applied to the highest scoring multi-year project. This will prepay the funding to that multi-year project that would have been allocated out of the next program year's funding. If there are no multi-year projects or there is still a remaining balance, the balance will be divided proportionately to the cost of each funded construction project. Those grantees will be directed to place that amount in their budget as construction contingency. After completion of those projects, if the dollars are not needed as contingency, they are to be released back to the state to be reallocated in the statewide pool.
